Enabling your research

The Library is your partner in research, offering a range of services to help you find, use and manage information effectively. www.lib.monash.edu

All questions are welcome

Library staff with specialist knowledge in your particular discipline can be contacted at any stage of your studies. Their expertise includes resource discovery, analysis and use; data management; essay, report and thesis writing; and oral presentation skills.

Has it been done already

Talk to us early in your research so that you can be confident of finding all the significant relevant information. Discuss your research proposal with your contact librarian for advice and assistance with a search strategy.

Save time, manage your references with EndNote

Learning how to use EndNote will save you time by making it easy for you to store, find and cite your references. Information about using EndNote at Monash is available at www.lib.monash.edu/endnote

Access to a world of information

The Library has extensive print and online resources. Research staff and students also have access to the Document Delivery Service through which you can request material not available at Monash.

Helping you through the publishing maze

Library staff understand the scholarly publishing process and can recommend the most useful resources for you.

We can help you access articles and show you how to track developments from key articles. We can also assist you with citing an unusual source and keeping up-to-date with the latest developments in your field.

Research data management

The Library and Monash e-Research Centre are available to help manage your research data more effectively.
